

Binghamton University, Assistant Professor of Dance: Teacher/Choreographer

Full-time, tenure track Assistant Professor with experience in musical theater to teach all levels of jazz/musical theater dance, and ballet or contemporary/modern dance technique (or both.) Each year this position will also be responsible for either choreographing the department musical theater production, or the mainstage dance production, and will also provide leadership and direction to students in the dance concentration.

A specialization in one or more of the major modern dance techniques: Graham, Horton, etc. And for ballet: Balanchine, Cecchetti, etc. is preferred. Similarly, a specialization in Luigi or Fosse, etc for jazz/musical theater dance is also preferred. The ideal candidate will have a commitment to creative collaboration, teaching excellence, and a respectful and inclusive environment that uses mentoring techniques designed to increase the likelihood of success for every student.

Requirements:

MFA preferred

Candidates with a BFA/BA/BS considered

Specialization in musical theater dance

Contemporary/modern dance or ballet specialization

Choreography experience

Significant professional and/or educational theater dance experience

Commitment to an ongoing professional career or creative work/research

Ability to build an inclusive learning environment

The review of applicants begins on October 31, 2016 and will continue until the position is filled. For instructions and more information please visit:

<http://binghamton.interviewexchange.com>

Starting Date: August 21, 2017

Salary: $66,000 maximum