

Anne Nelson
March 25, 2026

Movement Matters - April 2026

For April's edition of Movement Matters, I encourage you to explore "Disability & Arts Webinar Series." Hosted and supported by South Carolina Arts Commission and Able South Carolina, their Youtube channel presents information aimed at expanding the inclusivity of the disabled arts lovers community. Designed for arts organizations, the content series is an excellent resource for providing practices we can adopt today about engaging and including youth with disabilities in the arts, the use of assistive technology, program accessibility, and disability culture and awareness.

Able South Carolina, a non-profit disability-led organization, advocates reform on all levels from systemic to individual. The organization has created and shared their own adaptable tool kit for arts programs available for electronic download. In the words of Able SC, "Arts for Full" facilitates "Building inclusive and accessible experiences, so that all people can enjoy the power of expression, connection, and healing transformation of art in all its forms."

"Disability & Arts Webinar Series"

https://youtube.com/playlist?list=PLr_u4OfEy8EUoZem5BaqLFemoTBrHM-rl&si=dUVVRZ_AkrJ9Kiy7

Disability & Arts Webinars

January 14 @ Noon

Open & Closed Captioning for Live Theatre

Panel with David Chu, Caption Coalition Inc., Rachel Arfa, Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities, Chicago, & Tabitha Allum, Built For Good Technology.

SOUTH CAROLINA ARTS COMMISSION

able
SOUTH CAROLINA

“Arts for All: An Able South Carolina Toolkit Resource For Arts Programs”

“Arts for All: A toolkit to help you make your arts programs and facilities accessible”

<https://www.able-sc.org/resource-library/resources/>

